We are very pleased to announce that ContainerPort Group, headquartered in Cleveland, OH has completed an agreement to acquire Norfolk Warehouse Distribution Centers and Taylor Logistics, of Norfolk, VA. Operations will officially integrate effective December 1, 2007. NWDC and Taylor Logistics will continue to operate under their existing names but as new divisions of ContainerPort Group following that date.

ContainerPort Group, headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, is a leading provider of services to the container shipping industry and is in its 37th year of operation. CPG provides both motor carrier services and terminal services (depot, CY, equipment maintenance, rail ramp operations) to shipping lines, railroads, shippers/receivers, and freight intermediaries with concentration on international cargoes. CPG operates facilities and terminals in thirteen distinct geographic markets throughout the Midwest, Ohio Valley and East Coast.

NWDC and Taylor Logistics are leading providers of public warehousing, cargo distribution, special handling and customized logistics serving the Port of Norfolk and Mid-Atlantic region for over fifty years. Operations are centered on a fifteen-acre distribution services campus with 167,000 square feet of warehousing and cargo handling facilities.

CPG and NWDC/Taylor Logistics are joining together to create a combined, stronger and more market-capable company. Both NWDC/Taylor Logistics and CPG have earned excellent reputations for service reliability, knowledgeable people and business integrity over the years. By combining our strengths and talents, we will become even more competitive and attractive, ensuring greater capacity and a broader service menu to meet the growing requirements for reliable motor carrier services, public warehousing, cargo distribution and customized logistics.
